

HIGH ALPHA RETAIL
FUND

MONTHLY REPORT

November 2019 Factsheet

Market Update

In the US nonfarm payrolls climbed higher than consensus forecasts in October, according to the data released in early November, and September and August payrolls growth were also revised upward. The 12-month average payrolls change through October was slightly higher than the expansion average. U.S. manufacturing data improved, on the other hand, Markit's U.S. manufacturing PMI remained just within expansionary territory in November. The S&P 500 Index returned a solid 3.6% in November, eclipsing 11 new records.

Minutes of the last Federal Open Market Committee meeting showed a more unified Federal Reserve. More members agreed that in the wake of its third cut in short-term interest rates, it was time to pause and assess future economic data to determine the path of monetary policy.

The U.S. dollar ended the month stronger; the British pound weakened 0.1% versus the dollar, although dollar strength was partially offset by increasing expectations of a Conservative majority in the UK December election, a result that would likely lead to passage of a Brexit agreement by Parliament.

Investment Manager Outlook Statement

Stuart McAuliffe, Portfolio Manager.

The Fund is holding a levered position in Chinese technology stocks based on:

- Valuation
- Up trend in tech stocks globally
- Likely outcome to US/China Trade war.

Stocks in Asia have pulled back a few percent from highs, but the outlook is positive going into 2020 and we expect a positive year given fiscal and monetary policy loosening as the USA goes into a Presidential election year, normally a positive economic event

MONTHLY REPORT

November 2019 Factsheet

Fund Objective

The Investment Manager will seek to provide investors with capital growth over the medium to long-term. The Fund will invest in a range of financial products that focus on global macroeconomics and, in holding both long and short positions, will seek absolute returns regardless of market direction. The Investment Manager's advantage lies in correct assessment of broad valuation measures, macroeconomic environment, sentiment and economic forecasting. The strategy aims to identify medium and long-term trends and trend shifts, but to also vary position size given short-term technical indicators including sentiment and momentum.

Fund Strategy

The Fund will invest in a range of financial products that focus on global macroeconomics.

The goal is to provide investors with exposure to global markets, where returns are not necessarily correlated to traditional ASX equity markets (which is where many listed investment companies focus their investment activities).

In holding both long and short positions, the Fund will seek absolute returns – that is, returns regardless of market direction.

The Fund has a focus on an actively managed portfolio of exchange traded futures and options, trading where the Investment Manager believes that significant valuation discrepancies exist between current trading prices and the underlying intrinsic value of the asset class.

The Fund may also invest directly in equities listed in Australia and offshore on leading exchanges, and can hold relatively large cash exposures. Derivatives may be used to leverage the Fund.

The Fund seeks to maintain a diversity of investments in deeply liquid markets, with the goal of reducing risk and volatility (or the variability of returns).

Investment Manager

John Bridgeman Limited (Investment Manager) has been appointed by the Responsible Entity for JB High Alpha Retail Fund to manage the Portfolio in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Investment Management Agreement and the PDS. The Investment Manager and its investment team have considerable experience in investment management across different geographies, sectors and industries. The Investment Manager operates a specialist investment management business, and is listed on the National Stock Exchange of Australia under the ticker "JBL".
