MONTHLY REPORT

March 2020 Factsheet

Market Update

March 2020 will be remembered as one of the most volatile months in share market history. Equity markets saw some of the largest and fastest falls (Dow Jones -12% in one single day) and rallies (again Dow Jones with an increase of more than 20% in 3 days). At the end of the month the Dow Jones had closed 13.74% lower, down 23.2% for the March quarter and its worst quarter ever.

The Covid-19 virus has dominated the markets around the world in the past month and continues to do so. Coordinated action by governments and central banks around the globe in an attempt to limit the impact of the virus has seen announcements of further interest rate cuts, almost unlimited government and corporate bond buying and unprecedented stimulus packages.

The record bull market in U.S. stocks effectively turned a bear market on March 12, 11 years after the last one ended.

Notable main moves and records in the markets:

- The CBOE Volatility Index averaged 57% in March, triple the mean in the prior decade
- West Texas Intermediate Oil lost 67%, the worst quarter on record
- The U.S. 10 Year Treasury yield hit 1.94%, then fell to 0.31% in early March
- In currencies the British Pound fell more than 6%, while the Yen was flat against the USD

By the end of the month and whilst volatility remained, markets benefitted from the coordinated and massive government spending and support and started a furious weeklong rally in the last week of March, taking some of them between 15% to 20% from their March lows.

As markets look to be at a breaking point the fund continues to underweight risk relative to our benchmarks. We expect the sharp and erratic moves to continue into April and await opportunities with better risk/reward to present themselves.

Fund Objective

The Fund's objective is to provide investors with moderate to high portfolio appreciation over the medium to long-term through active management of the investment assets. The Fund will invest in a range of financial products that focus on Global Macroeconomics and, in holding both long and short positions, will seek absolute returns regardless of market direction. The Fund will predominantly invest and trade in global futures markets worldwide, across categories such as share indices, interest rates, currencies and commodities. The Fund may also invest in listed equities and can hold relatively large cash exposures.

Fund Strategy

The strategy aims to identify medium and long-term trends and trend shifts, but to also vary position size given short-term technical indicators including sentiment and momentum. The strategy targets positive results over 12 month rolling periods. The Investment Manager's advantage lies in correct assessment of broad valuation measures, macroeconomic environment, sentiment and economic forecasting.
