MONTHLY REPORT

May 2020 Factsheet

Market Update

For much of the month there was a positive flow on the global economy, notwithstanding widespread cuts and cancellations of dividends and an unprecedented collapse in the price of Brent Crude oil. First-quarter US GDP fell 4.8% but the true picture for the quarter is much worse.

The optimism related to the gradual reopening of the economies around the world, unprecedented actions of fiscal stimulus and central bank support for the financial system. After some initial weakness in equity prices early in the month, the US stock market closed out the month with a gain of about 5%.

Looking ahead further in this second quarter, the weakness in growth will likely be significantly worse, as the full impact of the lockdown will be felt and estimates are for global growth to decline by roughly -22%, making the recession the worst seen since the Second World War.

In the US, with roughly a third of S&P500 companies reporting so far, earnings per share have fallen by an average of -19% on a year on year basis, with the biggest declines seen in consumer discretionary, materials and industrial companies. In contrast, the earnings of defensive sectors – healthcare, consumer staple, technology and utilities have held up much better and, for the first quarter, have typically grown in the low single figures year on year.

After a good run in April and May, markets should focus once more on the macroeconomic data flow and corporate earnings delivery, both of which are likely to be a headwind in the months ahead. Looking much further ahead, however, optimists would highlight that financial markets are adept at discounting the future. As a rule, equity markets tend to find a firm footing roughly one quarter before the end of a recession.

Fund Update

The offer document of the Fund has been withdrawn from use effective 26 June 2020.

Investment Manager Outlook Statement

Stuart McAuliffe, Portfolio Manager.

Stocks continue to be supported by lower rates and the Fed's corporate bond buying program but from here it gets more interesting. The bullish view on equities will continue if rates bottom and economic growth bounces. The US Dollar may finally top out soon, sending other major currencies higher and driving commodity prices and emerging markets.

May 2020 Factsheet

Fund Objective

The Investment Manager will seek to provide investors with capital growth over the medium to long-term. The Fund will invest in a range of financial products that focus on global macroeconomics and, in holding both long and short positions, will seek absolute returns regardless of market direction. The Investment Manager's advantage lies in correct assessment of broad valuation measures, macroeconomic environment, sentiment and economic forecasting. The strategy aims to identify medium and long-term trends and trend shifts, but to also vary position size given short-term technical indicators including sentiment and momentum.

Fund Strategy

The Fund will invest in a range of financial products that focus on global macroeconomics.

The goal is to provide investors with exposure to global markets, where returns are not necessarily correlated to traditional ASX equity markets (which is where many listed investment companies focus their investment activities).

In holding both long and short positions, the Fund will seek absolute returns – that is, returns regardless of market direction.

The Fund has a focus on an actively managed portfolio of exchange traded futures and options, trading where the Investment Manager believes that significant valuation discrepancies exist between current trading prices and the underlying intrinsic value of the asset class.

The Fund may also invest directly in equities listed in Australia and offshore on leading exchanges, and can hold relatively large cash exposures. Derivatives may be used to leverage the Fund.

The Fund seeks to maintain a diversity of investments in deeply liquid markets, with the goal of reducing risk and volatility (or the variability of returns).
