Market Update

Global share markets rose in July as investors bet that ongoing government and central bank support will continue to drive the recovery even as many countries reported a further spike in new coronavirus cases. China's economy grew 3.2% for the year to 30 June, ensuring the country avoided recession after a 6.8% annualised contraction in the March quarter.

Meanwhile, a preliminary reading showed the US economy shrank 9.5% in the three months to 30 June and a massive 32.9% for the year – the biggest decline in annual growth since records began in 1945. At the country level, US stocks performed well, with the benchmark S&P 500 Index gaining 5.5% for the month. The index has now gained 46.2% since its low on 23 March. Chinese stocks were also materially higher over the period, while share markets in the UK, Japan and Europe were all weaker.

Australian shares made modest gains in July. Like their global counterparts, local stocks benefited from continued fiscal and monetary policy support, with the Federal Government extending its Job Keeper program for a further six months and the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) reaffirming its commitment to maintain its policy response to the coronavirus for as long as it's required. The RBA maintained its policy settings in July, including the targets for the cash rate and the yield on three-year government bonds of 0.25%.

Stocks continue to be supported by lower rates and the Fed's corporate bond buying program but from here it gets more interesting. The bullish view on equities will continue if rates bottom and economic growth bounces. The US Dollar may finally top out soon, sending other major currencies higher and driving commodity prices and emerging markets.

Fund Objective

The Fund's objective is to provide investors with moderate to high portfolio appreciation over the medium to long-term through active management of the investment assets. The Fund will invest in a range of financial products that focus on Global Macroeconomics and, in holding both long and short positions, will seek absolute returns regardless of market direction. The Fund will predominantly invest and trade in global futures markets worldwide, across categories such as share indices, interest rates, currencies and commodities. The Fund may also invest in listed equities and can hold relatively large cash exposures.

Fund Strategy

The strategy aims to identify medium and long-term trends and trend shifts, but to also vary position size given short-term technical indicators including sentiment and momentum. The strategy targets positive results over 12 month rolling periods. The Investment Manager's advantage lies in correct assessment of broad valuation measures, macroeconomic environment, sentiment and economic forecasting.
